THE DEAD PRINCE.

A DAY OF MOURNING THROUGH. OUT ENGLAND.

The Body Deposited Beside that of Napoleon III-Royal Pall-Bearers and Distinguished Mourners.

CHISELHURST, July 12.-The last sad somes connected with the funeral of the Prince Imperial of France are ended. The body rests now in the little Church of St. Mary at Chiselhurst, by the side of the dust of Napoleon III. A day of mourning and woe it has been. not only in the pretty little Kentish village of Chiselhurst, but in the whole of England. Queen Victoria mourned with the bereaved Empress, and many thousands of English women wept today though they were not present.

THE QUEEN'S ARRIVAL. A few minutes past 10 o'clock a special train from Windsor brought Her Majesty the Queen, accompanied by her daughter, the Princess Beatrice. Leaving the train they entered a close carriage and proceeded to the house of mourning. The Queen brought many splendid wreaths of flowers. Shortly afterward the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Duke of Connaught, the Duke of Edinburgh, Prince Teek, the Duke of Cambridge, the Prince Christian, the Prince of Saxe-Weimar, all in full uniform, passed under the draped gateway of Camden House, silently and respectfully greeted by the multitude. THE FUNERAL PAGEANT.

As the Queen, accompanied by the Princess of Wales, entered the Empress' boudoir, the boom of the first gun was heard, while the bands commenced to play the "Dead March in Saul," The procession then emerged from the gates in the following order: First came the troop of Irish Lancers, with lances in trail; then the Cadets, with ides reversed; then the band of the Royal Artillery, playing the solemn march with splendid effect. Then followed the clergy bearing the crucifix and the incense; then the Right Rev. Bishop Daniells, of Southwark, supported by two chaplains. Then came the coffin, on the six-horse gun carriage which had borne it from Woolwich to THE PROCESSION AND THE PALL-BEARERS. The tricolor of France enfolded the coffin, and on the lid rested a splendid eross of camellias, violets and hearts-ease. Two gunners of the Artillery held the immense wreath sent by Her Majesty the Queen. The pallbearers were: The Prince of Wales. The Duke of Edinburgh.

The Duke of Connaught. The Duke of Cambridge. The Prince of Monaco.

The Crown Prince of Sweden. the chief mourners were Prin Jerome Napoleon and his two sons; Princes Victor and Louis. Then came the dead Prince's favorite horse, "Stag," led by a groom named Brown. The horse was draped in black netting, bearing the imperial cypher "N." worked in silver. This was the horse ridden by the Prince on the day when he met his death in Zululand. Then followed Uhlmann, the Prince's confidential servant, and Lomas, the Prince's

Among those following the coffin were:—Princes Lucien and Charles Bonaparte, Joachim and Louis Murat, the Duke de la Moscova, a son of Marshal Nev: the Dukes of Padua and Mouchy, M. Paul de Cassagnac, Baron Haussmann and young Conneau, the dead Prince's playmate, Maitre Laud Fleury, and many others. The procession was closed by horse artillery and lancers. Her Majesty, the Queen, witnessed the procession, profoundly moved, from a black draped pavillion that had been erected on the grounds. Thus, with slow, lingering steps the procession traversed the distance beween Camden House and the Church amid the demonstrations of profound respect, sympathy and sorrow, the crash of bands and the roar of the min-

ARRIVAL OF THE COFFIN. Soon the distant strains of the "Dead March" announced the approach of the cortege. The Bishop of Southwark received the coffin at the gate. The Duke of Cambridge superintended the dis-mounting of the coffin, giving orders to the officers of the artillery who bore the body within the church. This is an incident without precedent in the history of the British army. The Bishop hav-ing sprinkled the coffin, the choir began in subdued tones to chant the "De Pro fundis." The English princes followed Then came the tall form and Napoleonic face of Prince Napoleon, who evidently tried to look serious. Then was witnessed one of the most touching scenes in the procession. Uhlmann, the Prince's Alsatian valet, entered weeping, heading the imperial household Then followed Princes Lucien and Charles and Roland, the son of the fireeater. Pierre and Prince Murat: ther MM. Rouher, Benedetti, heading Councillors, Senators and Deputies of the em-pire, with a solitary lady, Princess Math-ilde, in their midst. Then succeeded a brilliant throng of British officers.

A SOLEMN SCENE.

On one side of the catafalque were ranged the English princes, one Bona-parte on the other, and a crowd of officers in glittering uniform behind. All else was deep, dense black. The solemn requiem was then commenced to the plain, plaintive Gregorian chant, "Requiem Æternam," "Kyrie" and "Dies Iræ." Then the Bishop of Southwark intoned the solemn preface, "Vere Dignum" with magnificent voice. It was an extraordinary sight the princes of Protestant England kneeling, with bowed heads so reverently as the Bishop raised the Host and the chalice, the little belfry tolling, telling the crowds without of the solemn ceremonies within. The rite ended, those who had loved the dead Prince filed past the coffin, sprinkling holy water, strewing flowers and whispering prayers.

NATIONAL BOARD OF HEALTH

Issues a Circular Defining its Duties and Relations to Local Boards.

WASHINGTON, July 13,-In view of the misconceptions which seem to prevail in many parts of the Southern States with regard to the powers and duties of the National Board of Health, Dr. Billings, vice-president of that or-ganization, has addressed a letter to the eanitary council of the Mississippi val-ley, which is substantially as follows: First: It is the duty of all State and local health authorities, and not of the National Board of Health, to take initiative steps in adopting measures to prevent the spread of contagious dis-eases. The National Board of Health has caused to be printed and circulated certain recommendations which indicate the minimum amount of precaution to be taken. The State or local authorities may, in their own discretion, make more stringent rules than these suggested; but if they are too stringent, even to absolute non-inter-course, this Board has no power to in-terfere. It is only when rules are in-adequate that it can take legal action. Second: Although this Board desires to do everything in its power to aid the State and municipal organiza-tions, it is not expected for it te do or to pay for all the work of prevention, neither can it place money in the hands of the local boards to be expended at the latter's discretion. It expended at the latter's discretion. It must know for what purpose the money is to be used. The Secretary of the Treasury, however, has approved a special estimate of this board for funds to aid the health authorities of Members and the State of Topusses and the phis and the State of Tennessee, and to prevent the spread of the fever to the adjoining States. But the power of this board is very small compared with that of the local authorities. Finally, the letter concludes: Don't let quarantine occupy the attention of your council to the exclusion of municipal cleanliness, which is the great object to be secured.

Dr. Turner, Secretary of the National Board of Health, furnishes the following summary of the board's recom-mendations to the local Southern organizations: First, let the State or local boards authoritative, accept the rules and regulations of the National Board of Health. Second: Let them notify this board that such acceptance is made and have notice properly authenticated and certified when these things have been done. If aid is needed the local board requiring it must specify the amount wanted, and present it with such specification on an itemized schedule, stating objects to which it is to be applied, such as to pay off inspectors, policemen, food, medical attendance, buildings for quarantine purposes, etc. Money can be furnished only in accordance with

A LOVERS' QUARRET.

Results in Death and Suicide. Jim Heaton Kills His Paramour and Then Blows out his own Brains.

Wilmington Star, July 13. Our city was the scene of one of the most terrible tragedies that has ever oc-curred within its limits. In the very heart of the town, in a crowded thoroughfare, thronged with Saturday night purchasers, a woman was deliberately murdered, and in a few minutes later, in a retired back lot, only a few blocks distant, the closely pursued, desperate murderer deliberately sent his own murderer deliberately sent his own soul to join his victim.

About 11 o'clock last night the victim of the murder, a very bright mulatto, named Mary Ratcliff, was going up Market street with a colored man named Jim—, who cooks for William Marstellar, at a stall in the Market House.

When they arrived abreast of the furstellar, at a stall in the Market House. When they arrived abreast of the furniture store of Messrs. Behrends & Munroe, at the intersection of Second street, they met with James Heaton, a well known young white man about town, whose paramour the young woman is notoriously reported to have been for several years past. There are rumors of a quarrel between Heaton and herself on Thursday and she is said to have gone down to Smithville Friday for the purpose of avoiding him. day for the purpose of avoiding him, having stated to parties on the boat that she wanted to get out of town for she was afraid he would kill her. When Heaton met her last night, he is said to have asked her to give him her hand. She refused his request, which was several times repeated. Finally Heaton drew a pistol and fired three shots at the woman in rapid succession, two of which struck in the street, but one of them took deadly effect in her body. The ball, as was subsequently discovered on the physician's examination, en-tered just below the collar bone, and passed directly in, entering the right lung about the apex and severing an artery in passage, which caused inter-nal hemorrhage, producing death in about fifteen minutes.

About the time that Mary Ratcliff died information was brought to the Chief of Police that a pistol shot had been heard in a vacant let known as the old Morris lot, on Fourth between Princess and Chesnut streets.

Captain Brock caused a search to be made in the vacant lot where the shot was said to have been fired and groans further reported to have been heard. In the most remote corner of this enclosure the officers found him, lying flat upon his back with a bullet hole through the right temple, alive but breathing heavily, the pistol as if just just dropped from his nerveless hand, evidencing that the last act of this terrible tragedy was suicide.

How High is our Atmosphere! If the air gets less and less dense as it stop altogether? We cannot go up to find out, because we should die long before we reached the limit. For long time we had to guess how high the atmosphere probably was, and it was generally supposed not to be more than fitty miles. But lately some curious bodies, which we should never have suspected would be useful to us in this way, have let us into the secret of the height of the ators or falling stars. On a clear, starlight night you may often see one or more of these bright lights flash through the air, for one falls on an average in every twenty min-utes; and on the nights of August 9th and November 13th, there are numbers in one part of the sky. These bodies are not really stars; they are simply stones or lumps of metal flying through the air, and taking fire by clashing against the atoms of oxygen in it. There are great numbers of these masses moving round and round the sun, and when our earth comes across their path, as it does especially in August and November, they dash with such tremendous force through the atmosphere that they grow white-hot, and give out light, and then disappear, melted into vapor. Every now and then one falls to the earth before it is all melted away, and thus we learn that these stones contain tin, iron, sulphur, phosphorus and other substances.

It is while these bodies are burning that they look to us like falling stars and when we see them we know that they must be dashing against our atmosphere. Now if two people stand a certain known distance apart on the earth—say fifty miles—and observe these meteors and the direction in which they see them fall, they can calculate, by means of the angle between the two directions, how high they are above them, and at that moment they must have struck against the atmosphere, and even traveled some way though it to become white-hot. In this way we have learned that meteor burst into light at least one hundred miles above the surface of the earth; and so the atmosphere must be more than one hundred miles high.—Miss Buckley's "Fairy Land of Science."

Whisky Saved His Life.

Robert G. Pillow, a son of the late ex-Confederate General Pillow, lives on an Arkansas plantation, across the river from Memphis. A few days ago, accompanied by Aleck, one of the colored men on the place, he was out hunting a wild hog that had been seen in the vicinity. Pillow had a gun, and Aleck had armed himself with a pint bottle filled with whisky. The hog was found and shot, and just as Pillow went up to and shot, and just as Pillow went up to the writhing animal an immense "cot-ton-mouth" snake, whose bite is fatal as that of a rattle-snake, fastened its fangs on the calf of his leg. Pillow is not easily frightened. He took in the situation in a moment, and instead of exhibiting alarm he turned to his companion and quietly remarked: "Aleck I think I'll try a little of that whisky now," whisky being considered an infallible remedy. He poured every drop down his throat without stopping to venture any remarks as to its quality. Then shouldering his gun he rapidly walked to his house, a half mile distant, where he drank the contents of three ordinary glass tumblers filled with whisky. He was soon in what he calls a "Niagara Fails of a perspiration." which rapidly expelled the poison and saved his life. For a day or two after he says that he was the sickest man in all Arkansas.

Completion of Capt. Eads' Work. President Hayes has been officially informed that the thirty feet required by the act of Congress to be the maximum depth of the channel formed by Capt. Eads for the passage of the water through the jetties of the lower Missis-sippi has been secured. It was a bold undertaking, but after four years insuccess. The theory upon which he acted was a simple one. It was to build two jetty walls of twigs bound together, to form matresses, weighed down with alternate layers of stone, and pass the waters of the Mississippi through this artificial channel before they emerged into the sea. It was calculated that the channel by this compression of the waters would scour out the bed of it ultimately to the requisite depth.

BEHIND THE BARS.

WHAT THE STATE CRIMINALS ARE DOING

A Convict who Claims $1,800,000
--- A Colored Dector and Prescher
--- The Manufacturing Shops.

For years past the subject of prison workings and prison discipline has engaged the attention of the political economist. For, while it was absolutely necessary to provide proper panish ment for those who had violated the laws, the subject had to be looked at in a three-fold aspect:

First, As a punishment. Second, As a temporary or it might prove to be perpetual) check on further offenses by the person for the time being. Third, Reclamation, or an offert in that direction.

UNDER THE OLD SYSTEM, which was in vogue in England until within a comparatively recent datethe same system that was brought to us by inheritance and which was followed until 1817 when the State prison at Auburn, N. Y., was commencedthe first of the foregoing propositions was the rule. When a person was sentenced he was herded with a lot of criminals of all ages and conditions, from the veriest tyro in pocketpicking to the hardened viilain who would not stop at the taking of life to carry out his undertaking. No matter how trivial the crime; no matter what might have been the cause of the temmight have been the cause of the temporary lapse from virtue, the degradation of a conviction would weigh upon the mind of the young offender, and his heart would rise in rebellion against the world, and he would gladly take the advice of the older ruffian with whom he was associated by the direction of the courts. There was no direction of the courts. There was no chance for reclamation under such a system. Once a thief, the convict was always looked upon with suspicion.

EVERY MAN'S HAND WAS AGAINST HIM.

and, as a natural sequence, his hand was against everybody but his associates.

Then efforts were made to amend the system by dividing the young sinners from the old, but although this was a step toward reclamation it naturally failed in its object and no advance was failed in its object, and no advance was really made toward this end until the establishment of the Auburn prison, which was soon pronounced the model prison of the world. This system was designed to prevent all chances of further moral contagion by engaging the convicts in some industrial pursuit, prohibiting unnecessary conver-sation and separating them at night. It proved to work well, and the amendnents made since then have been very

Thus the three leading ideas were in a measure accomplished: The punishment, while considered severe, is not excessive; it has proven in many cases a perpetual check on the downward road, by reclaiming many from crime through labor, BY GIVING THEM A USEFUL TRADE whereby at the expiration of their terms of imprisonment they might find employment. Just outside the western limits of the city is situated the a representative of visit to the institution. On knocking at the gate he was courteously received by Captain Marsh, the assistant warden, and escorted throughout the stockadefor be it known that at present all the buildings in course of construction, together with the workshops, dormitories, etc., are surrounded with this primitive style of wall. Looking from the building at present used as the office, the new buildings going up can be seen to advantage, while the long walls of cut stone show the foundations set where the penitentiary as an entire-ty is to stand. Thus far only the east wing of the main building, to be used as dormitories, has approached comple-tion; but on the west the foundations run out, making a total length of 611 feet. To the rear and at right angles is another large structure, designed for a dining hall, cook house and store rooms, and the upper story will be used as dormitories forthe employes. A full description of the buildings and the plans will appear in a future article. THE WOMEN'S APARTMENT was first visited. Being Monday it was wash and cleaning day, and the inmates were busily engaged in that pursuit that is classed next to Godliness. There are twenty-six female convicts at present, the majority colored. On entering with Captain Marsh and Mr. Roberts, under whose charge these unfortunates are at present, the party were looked at with some surprise, for it is unusual for strangers to be admitted to their prison. The negresses are for the most part con-fined on convictions of larceny, but now and then an occasional case arises like that of the woman who, in a fit of anger, threw her infant at her husband and broke its neck. Conspicuous among the females is confined on a life sentence for the murder of her husband. About the last woman in the world one would have taken to have been implicated in such a crime and for such a cause. Coarse, forbidding in aspect, it seems strange that she could have made any one become so enamored of such a creature as to lead to murder. These women are principally engaged for their daily avocation in the weave shop, where looms are in operation. This is a branch of prison work that will be enlarged as soon as opportunity offers. The colored women apparently enjoy their life, but the whites feel it. THE DINING ROOM. From the women's quarters to the dining-room was the next step. It was high noon and the male convicts were enjoying their weal. Good, wholesome soup, vegetables and meat and corn-bread furnished the material to make good the "waste of tissue," expended during the morning. When through their meal they filed out of the room, and, with their hands on their leaders shoulders, marched off in lock step to their respective places of work. On where some ten or twelve men lay stretched out, waiting for relief from imprisonment, temporary or eternally, perhaps it made but little difference which. Their sufferings have been alleviated as much as possible. The pris-on surgeon, Dr. Lodge, is always on hand. The principal diseases are consumption and dropsy. Only yesterday morning a squad of thirty-four con-victs were returned from one of the railroad details for medical treatment.

will be able to turn out a large amount of work. This shop was started but a twelve-month ago, and only within three months has the work been so far advanced as to make any calculation for the future. The demand for prison shoes is rapidly increasing and yesterday quite a large invoice was shipped.

PENNING THEMSELVES IN. A large force of men are constantly at work at stone dressing, building themselves in, in fact, for a fly could hardly scale the walls when finished, the south-eastern angle being sixty reet on the outside from the bed rock to the coping. The quarries are on the outside of the wall, and to the north of these are the brick yards, where the men are allowed to amuse themselves at this alluring pastime.

THE PRESENT DORMITORIES are quite comfortable considering the cfreumstances, ten men to a room. They will find out the difference when removed to single cells.

THE KITCHEN ARRANGEMENTS are good, and at the bake-house great loaves of capital corn bread were shown. Visitors generally taste it to see what kind of fare the State boarders what kind of fare the State boarders are in the habit of getting.

The prison books yesterday showed the presence of three hundred and eleven convicts, but gangs are leaving and coming as demands are made by contractors or as contracts are ended.

A MONTE CHRISTO. John, as he is familiarly called, a yhite man of some fifty-five years of age, is in trouble over his money. He claims that the prison officials hold some $1,800,000 of his wealth. He doesn't want it all at one time, but if Captain Marsh will give him the bagatelle of $100,000 now and then he is willing to let the balance stand. The Captain has to promise a check for that amount every time he gets within hailamount every time he gets within hailing distance. Yesterday John was willing to excuse him in consideration of a chew of tobacco. Another conglomerate was a gray-headed negro, who combined the M. D. with the D. D.—a local preacher of power (so far as lungs were concerned) as well as a lungs were concerned) as well as a lungs were concerned. fungs were concerned) as well as a "yerb" doctor. He states that he was imprisoned for practicing medicine without a license. There are some cripples; one, a darkey with a wooden leg, was telling a story, and looked as happy as if he believed it. Another, a white man with one arm, had a box of rings, neat specimens of handiwork. The system as outlined in the first part of this article is carried out at the penitentiary, which as at present man-aged will make it a self-sustaining institution.

Colonel Hicks was absent during the reater portion of the reporter's visit, but during a short conversation he made it apparent that he was well informed in relation to the workings of kindred institutions. As before stated the subject is too bulky to handle it in one article of the NEWS, but will be attended to in a future issue.

Question and Answers. An election will be held in this county in August on a railroad appropriation for the Salem and Morrisville road and also on the stock law. The board of county commissioners have ordered a new registration. Query. Will the new registrations have the effect of disfranchising all pergust 1879, for the purpose of levying taxes etc.

Chapter 82, laws of '79, says, the Board of Supervisors (which embraces all the justices of the peace of the sever-l townships) shall meet at some place in their respective townships on the first Monday in August, 1879, for the purpose of consulting on the subject of the condition of the roads in their townships, and upon failure to do so they are guilty of a misdemeanor, and can be fined and imprisoned.

Will you please inform us how to reconcile this matter, and which of these meetings the magistrates of Wake should attend on the first Monday in August.

Yours truly, J. R. PAGE. [REPLY.]

There is evidently a conflict. The latter law being the last expression of the legislative will has precedence. It might be well enough for the chairman of the county meeting to give in advance notice of an adjournment of that meeting over until the next day (Tuesday).-ED. NEWS.

What They do at Beaufort.

Gov. Jarvis, Capt. Dudly, of the State Department and mine host of the Yarpro returned from Beaufort yesterday, looking many years younger and infinitely happier. They ate blue fish, and soft shells and bathed in the glorious surf. They all agree that the Atlantic, under the efficient management of mine popular host, Col. Perry, is par excel-lence. Among the visitors there are some of Raleigh's most charming socie-ty. Our bachelor friend Capt. D. will return as soon as the "cares of State" will admit of his absence from the city and fight it out on that line if it "takes all summer." Upon the whole we know of no more enjoyable summer resort than Beaufort.

Commodore Parks' Beacon Light. Washington City Gazette.

Hon, Marshall Parks, President the Chesapeake and Albemarle Canal Company of Norfolk, Va., has invent-ed a "beacon light" that will be of great use when introduced on the inland waters of the United States. The great cost of lighthouses to mark the entrance of rivers and shoals in the bays, sounds, etc., has prevented their general use. For instance: If a light was wanted at the entrance of a river, or a buoy to indicate a dangerous shoal in a bay, sound or river, the construction of a lighthouse has hitherto been a necessity. Lighthouses of the most incrior order cost $25,000, and Congress must appropriate the sum, otherwise the Lighthouse Board cannot or will not erect such light. If the appropriation be made, the Lighthouse Board will, after deliberating a few years, erect the structure, appoint a keeper at (say) $900, and an assistant keeper at 3600 per annum. Then comes supplies of oil, provisions, fuel, etc., say $500 per annum. In addition to this the Lighthouse Engineer must visit the light once or twice per annum, and the cost of this service will be $1,000 per year for each light. Then there is the Lighthouse Inspector, an officer of the navy, who must inspect, at a cost of will spend hundreds of dollars to see the mountains of Virginia and New England, when we have in twenty-four hours' journey from the sea, the finest scenery and highest mountains east of the Rocky Range. There is no journey, perhaps, which a tourist might select, that will be made up of more pleasant surprises, more picturesque, gorgeous, grand and indescribable mountain beauties and sublimities, than those which meet the eye of the traveler in crossing the Blue Ridge from Henry, at the foot of the mountain, to the eastern portal of the Swannanoa tunnel, a distance of nine miles, on the Western North Carolina railroad. Leaving Beaufort or Wilmington in the morning, coming via Raleigh, you reach Greensboro at seven in the evening; there you get supper. Then swinging your through car on to the Atlanta Air Line train you speed away at forty miles an hour, arriving at Salisbury at 10:15 p. m.: you are immediately trans-10:15 p. m.; you are immediately transferred to the train of the Western North ferred to the train of the Western North Carolina Railroad. This train is provided with polite, gentlemanly and efficient officers. The conductors on the road are Captains Newlan and Murphy—courteous geutlemen—who make you feel like you were at home at once. Leaving Salisbury at 10:30, p. m., you take a sleeper, if you choose, at an extra charge of only $1.50, and can have a a refreshing and comfortable rest until six next morning. When you reach the mountain. Arriving at Henry, you get a splendid mountain breakfast, good fresh milk and butter, broiled venison steak, and in fact almost anything in the line of game you may wish. After breakfast, the steam engine, defying the fastnesses, gorges and great mountains which lie before you, begins the ascent of the mountain, carrying a coach and baggage-car. Now you are on the side of the mountain looking down hundeds of feet at the foaming weters. the side of the mountain looking down hundreds of feet at the foaming waters as they burst from the rocks; now you pass over a ravine and your vision is filled with flowers clustering upon the mountain sides; now you go rumbling through a tunnel cut out of solid rock, through a tunnel cut out of solid rock, then passing over a high trestle you wind around the mountains until you have come again to a place where you can see the track over which you have just traveled, about twenty feet below you; then by gradual ascent you reach a summit from which the range of vision is lost in never-ending mountains, gorges, valleys and rivers. A traveler who had been a tourist amid the wonders and beauties of the Alps and upon the continents of Europe, and he aid there was nothing in the Old World which would compare in grandeur and beauty to the scenery which is con-stantly unfolding itself before you as you ascend the mountain over this road. By October the great tunnel (now half completed) will have been finished; the grading and track-laying is being rapidly pushed beyond the western gate of the mountain, and by the 1st of January the track will be finished and the cars running to "the city among the clouds." Public appreciation is in nearly all cases in exact ratio to the merit of any-thing offered for sale or patronage. There is no success like success. According to this standard the "St. Nicholas Hotel" has no equal, certainly no superior in the country, for during its long life it has been favored with the heartiest attachment and admiration on the part of travelers. In emisiniere, in its dormitories, parlors, and accommo-dations generally it is all that could be asked for by the most luxurious.

Looking After His Interests. Colonel James B. Stuart, of New York, is at the Yarborough. The Colonel is a New York lawyer of distinction, and has for several years been en gaged for the Western North Carolina Railroad in attempting to secure the funds of the said road which were invested in the Florida railroads. A gentleman who was at the trial in Florida bears testimony to his great ability, his superhuman industry and labor, and with his associate, Mr. J. K. Hubert, of New York, to a most skillful management of the suit before Mr. Justice Bradley of the Supreme Court of the United States sitting in the Circuit Court of Florida. The same gen-deman tells us that in traveling home with Justice Bradley, that gentleman spoke in the highest terms of the speech delivered by Colonel Stewart, and of his management of the case: Colonel Stewart is in this city looking after the interest of his clients—the Western North Carolina Railroad, and f he shall reclaim the sum involved ($960,000), it will go far toward finishing the said road, and all will feel very Wife Missing. Since Friday last my wife has been missing from my room on corner Hargett and Wilmington streets. Any information concerning her whereabouts will be thankfully received.

Honored and Blessed. ', When a board of eminent physicians and chemists announced the discovery that by combining some well know valuable remedies the most wonderful medicine was produced which would cure such a wide range of diseases that most all other remedies could be dispensed with, many were scepti-cal; but proof of its merits by actual trial has dispelled all doubt, and to-day the discoverers of that great medicine, Hop Bitters, are honored and blessed by all as benefactors.

A Fool Once More. "For ten years my wife was confined to her bed with such a complication of ailments that no doctor could tell what was the matter or cure her, and I used up a small fortune in humbug stuff. Six months ago I saw a U. S. flag with Hop Bitters on it, and I thought I would be a fool once more. I tried it, but my folly proved to be wisdom. Two bottles cured her, she is now as well and strong as any man's wife, and it cost me only two dollars. Such folly pays.

BOVINE, MISSISSIPPI, April 22, 1879. The following correspondence will explain itself: A. WADDILL, Esq., LYNCHBURG, VA.—Dear Sir: Observing a certificate from you in reference to the "Iron and Alum Mass," of the Seven Springs, in Washington county, Va., in relation to its efficacy for Liver Diseases, would you have the kindness to inform me whether you used the "Mass" or the "Water;" also, a description of the symptoms and such other information as you may deem pertinent. I am a long-time sufferer with Liver Complaint, and naturally feel very anxious on the subject of a remedy that will afford me even temporary relief. Your early reply will greatly oblige, very respectfully,

WILLIAM BARR. Lynchburg, Va., May 12, 1879.--WM. BARR, Esq., Bovine, Mississippi-Dear Sir: Your inquiry in regard to the "Liver case" which was effectually cured in my family from using the "Seven Springs Mass," is before me, The case referred to in my certificate was that of my wife's sister, who is now in her 80th year, and has been a member of my family for the last 27 years. She had been afflicted with Liver Disease for 30 years, sometimes almost dying with pains in the back, breast, and heaviness of the chest, heart-burns (intensely), sick stomach vomiting, &c. I procured a few bottles of the "Mass" for her, and very soon after she began the use of it, her health commenced to get better, and she continued steadily to improve, and at this writing, so old, seemingly in as good health as a person who had never been afflicted with these diseases. She attributes her cure entirely to the efficacy of the "Seven Springs Mass." I regard it one of the greatest family medicines we have access to, not only for such diseases as above indicated, but for various other complaints for which it is recommended. Hoping these answers satisfactory, I am, very truly, A. WAD-DILL, Proprietor Lynchburg News. For sale by Wm. Simpson, Pescud, Lee & Co., and F. H. Heartt, Raleigh, N. C., and Druggists generally.
